

3TG: DRC Conflict-Free Declaration

On July 21, 2010 the Dodd-Frank Wall Street Reform and Consumer Protection Act was signed into law in the United States. This law requires public companies on any U.S. Stock Exchange to report if they are purchasing 3TG metals (tantalum, tungsten, tin, and gold) out of the Democratic Republic of Congo (DRC). Even though Allegro is not a publicly traded company, we are pleased to declare that 3TG metals used in Allegro parts are Conflict-free.

Allegro MicroSystems, LLC, is pleased to provide our customers with information regarding the materials used in the manufacturing of our semiconductor products. We value our relationship and appreciate the need for environmental controls. Allegro considers itself to be an environmentally responsible company.

We believe that we are in compliance with all applicable local, state, federal, and international environmental and Code of Conduct regulations. To assure compliance, we require that our material suppliers provide confirmation to the Dodd-Frank Wall Street Reform and Consumer Protection Act.

Allegro takes environmental control and its Code of Conduct seriously and we want to assure our customers that we are doing everything reasonably possible to maintain compliance with all environmental and Code of Conduct standards. However, because we are not the producer of any of the materials contained in our product, notwithstanding anything to the contrary contained in any document, Allegro shall not be liable, under any theory of law, and shall not be responsible to defend or indemnify any party should any material be out of compliance. We believe the controls we have in place will help to assure that Allegro remains compliant. We remain willing to answer any questions you may have regarding our environmental controls and Code of Conduct.
